

A Pre-Intermediate Grammar Worksheet from Anna Grammar™

We can use "would love to..." to talk about something we would like to do soon or some time in the future.

I would love to go to Europe next year.

We use would like in a similar way.

would like/love+ to + infinitive of verb

We can also talk about something that we wouldn't like or would hate to do.

I wouldn't like to go to a heavy metal concert. I really dislike that kind of music!

would hate /not like + to + infinitive of verb

We use the words "Would you like to...?" when we are inviting somebody to do something, or asking them if they want to do something. (Would you like... is a little more formal or polite than "do you want to")

We can answer "Yes, I would" or "No, I wouldn't."

*I would like to see that singer in concert when he comes to our city.
Yes, I'd love to see him too!*

*Would you like to come with me to see him? I think he is performing here in June.
Yes, I would. Thanks.*

Do you want to...? is often used when we want to find out what someone plans or wants to do.

do you want + to + infinitive of verb

*Do you want to go and see him? - Yes I do.
Do you want me to get the tickets? - Yes thanks.*

We can also talk about someone's ambitions (the things they hope to do one day in the future).
Want and hope (want /hope + to + infinitive of verb) are two of the verbs used in this way.

*I want to be a great musician one day.
I want to be on American Idol.
I just want to get a good job.
I hope to visit Finland when I'm older.*

We use going to to talk about a plan. We can use going to for talking about things we are going to do at a future time - something that we have arranged to do* or decided to do before this moment.

*I'm going to move to California next year.
I'm going to be an actor.
I'm going to send that director my idea.*

*We can also use the Present Continuous for a plan or arrangement.

*I'm meeting Susie at a cafe for lunch.
He's visiting us next year.*
